COVID-19 and Human Participants Research

University of Arkansas at Little Rock

The IRB strongly recommends that investigators continue remote data collection. Protocols containing in-person data collection will be reviewed and evaluated based on the level of risk. Many may require full board review which may require a longer decision process.

When research is conducted at a site other than UA Little Rock the most stringent policies, UA Little Rock, local, state, national, or international apply.

The IRB will continue to update this policy as the situation warrants.
